

Community-Based Population Health Management

As your Accountable Care Organization (ACO) or Accountable Health Community (AHC) seeks to create a continuum of care that serves community population health needs, AHP brings deep knowledge to the critical junction of medical, behavioral, and social determinants of health. Our highly skilled team meets your organization at any point in the process, helping to create a comprehensive, high-quality, and cost-effective system of services that reduces costs and improves outcomes for the special populations who most challenge the health delivery system.

“Seek first to understand...”

The first step to a best-in-class model of accountable care is to know your community and its needs. Our expert team delves into the detail of providers, potential partners, services, and programs to assess and identify the pathways to collaboration and success. Work with AHP to:

- Facilitate strategic planning and implementation
- Establish clinical and medical risk factors and social determinants of health in your community
- Operationalize a new system of care supported by business process reengineering
- Design an integrated provider network with care coordination across all health systems
- Support workforce development to meet the core needs of unique populations
- Re-engineer your reimbursement structure to leverage value-based payment models for 30 years

Advocates for Human Potential, Inc., (AHP) has been improving health and human services systems of care and business operations to help organizations and individuals reach their full potential.

AHP’s team matches knowledge and experience in behavioral health systems of care with hands-on expertise in physical health care. As a result, we create sharing and collaboration between systems, so you can focus on addressing the social, housing, and behavioral health factors of the people you serve and creating a coordinated, responsive, and accountable system of care.

How to Get There: From Assessment to Implementation

AHP has a proven four-step process for bringing your population health management model of care from vision to action. Our extensive experience facilitating relationships between divergent systems and cultures will ensure collaboration and success in your community-based population health management programming.

1. Community Behavioral Health Needs Assessment (CBHNA)

Research and report findings on the unique needs, gaps, and resources within your community, addressing the wide range of behavioral health and social factors.

2. Community Stakeholder Engagement

Meetings, workshops, interviews, and focus groups to better understand the community, promote and enhance relationships with stakeholders, and lay a solid foundation for the long-term viability of community partnerships.

3. Population Health Improvement Strategic Planning

Facilitated process of developing goals, setting objectives, establishing priorities, identifying targets and measures for performance, and managing the scale and speed of new model rollout.

4. Population Health Management System of Care Implementation

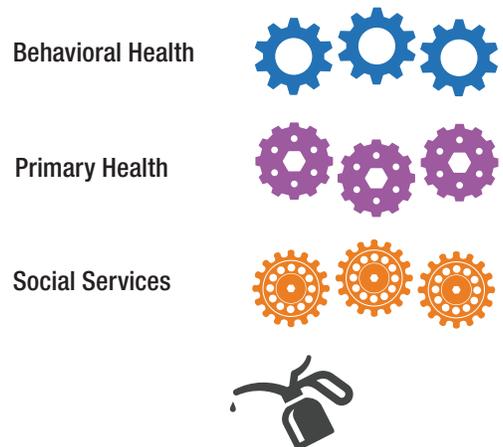

Operationalizing relationships around:

- Clinical and service models
- Teaming and co-location
- Promotion and engagement
- Technology and information management
- Financial models
- Outcomes and quality measures

Ready, Set, Operationalize!

Achieving your vision requires commitment to the hard, practical, and hands-on work of implementation, where AHP experts excel at applying their knowledge and experience. Think of us as your implementation mechanics, applying oil, aligning parts, and streamlining operations for a smooth and continuous delivery of care. Together, we improve the population health of your community through efficient care coordination and integrated processes across diverse systems.

Integrating Operations Across Diverse Systems

AHP is your ACO/AHC mechanic, providing the oil to ensure all moving parts integrate smoothly and efficiently
